African Perspectives on Tradition and Justice

By Tom Bennett, Eva Brems, Giselle Corradi, Lia Nijzink, Martien Schotsmans

Intersentia Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, African Perspectives on Tradition and Justice, Tom Bennett, Eva Brems, Giselle Corradi, Lia Nijzink, Martien Schotsmans, This volume aims to produce a better understanding of the relationship between tradition and justice in Africa. It presents six contributions of African scholars related to current international discourses on access to justice and human rights and on the localisation of transitional justice. The contributions suggest that access to justice and appropriate, context-specific transitional justice strategies need to consider diversity and legal pluralism. In this sense, they all stress that dialogical approaches are the way forward. Whether it is in the context of legal reforms, transitional processes in post-war societies or the promotion of human rights in general, all contributors accentuate that it is by means of cooperation, conversation and cross-fertilization between different legal realities that positive achievements can be realized. The contributions in this book illustrate the perspectives on this dialectical process from those operating on the ground, and more specifically from Sierra Leone, Mozambique, Malawi, South Africa, Uganda and Rwanda. Obviously, the contributions in this volume do not provide the final outcome of the debate. Rather, they are part of it.

Reviews

I just began reading this pdf. It is actually written in straightforward words instead of hard to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

A must buy book if you need to add benefit. I am quite late in starting reading this one, but better than never. It has been designed in an exceptionally easy way in fact it is only after I finished reading this publication where in fact it modified me, altering the way in my opinion.
