Nearly two thousand years ago a mighty event took place, as recorded in the New Testament, when three great Hebrew prophets of the tribes of Israel talked together on a mountain-top in Galilee on that occasion which has been well described as the Transfiguration. The underlying spiritual truth symbolized by this event was destined to flow like an onrushing river through a great desert, carrying to every part of the world the inspiration which reveals the true concept of God and man, healing and saving from sin, and raising from the dead those buried in material life as well as those buried beneath the ground. There they stood on the mountain-top, the Jewels of their race, --Moses, the law-maker of Israel; Elias, or Elijah, the embodiment of prophetic Israel and the spirit of that which must first come, and restore to each...
